Editor's Preface

IN THIS EDITION of THE TATLER the Staff has attempted to portray as accurately as possible life as we have known it at Winthrop. We have chosen the theme—"Successful Women of Today"—because it is particularly appropriate: both as an inspiration to Winthrop daughters and as a tribute to the opportunities Winthrop has offered us. We sincerely believe that whatever degree of success we shall achieve in the world we shall owe in a large measure to our Alma Mater. We hope that this volume of THE TATLER will aid in some small measure in keeping in our hearts the ideals which have been instilled in us here and that these women who have already attained that envied success will serve as an inspiration to us who are just beginning our attempt toward that end.

Foreword

MEMORIES of the heart are elusive things and succeed in escaping the gropings of people who attempt to put them into the books of men. Yet, just such a task has been attempted in this volume of THE TATLER. The goal of this book has been to express the heritage of Winthrop daughters—the memories of their hearts. Realizing also that our life at Winthrop has been only a beginning of the life outside the walls of Winthrop, we have timorously included a bit of this mysterious beyond. Therefore, the inspiration of other women who have known that Great Experience has been employed in the hope that the daughters of Winthrop will likewise be more successful when they remember the ideals of their Alma Mater.

The History of Winthrop College

WINTHROP COLLEGE is one more proof of the great results of a modest but worthy beginning. The development of the College might be divided into three stages: the early beginning from the City Schools of Columbia, the Winthrop Training School for Teachers in Columbia, and Winthrop Normal and Industrial College, in Rock Hill. Throughout the first forty-three years of Winthrop one great hand, the same hand that began it, guided it successfully. He was succeeded by Dr. James P. Kinard who is ably carrying on the Founder's work.

Dr. D. B. Johnson, when Superintendent of the City Schools in Columbia, recognized the need for trained teachers. In fact, securing trained teachers was one of the greatest problems of the many he had to solve in regard to the Columbia Schools. After recommendation to the Board, Dr. Johnson was authorized to apply for aid to the Peabody Board. He went immediately to Boston and through the Chairman of the Board, Mr. Robert C. Winthrop, secured fifteen hundred dollars a year. This fund was later raised to two thousand dollars. It was in gratitude of Mr. Winthrop's interest and aid that the institution he helped was named for him. This interest and aid continued in various forms throughout his life.

The sum of fifteen hundred dollars was the sole source of finance for the proposed establishment. A small tuition fee was charged the students, but it was often remitted and served only as a meager supply of funds. While in Boston, Dr. Johnson had met Miss Mary H. Leonard, who was a teacher in New England and was then on temporary leave of absence. She was secured as teacher and principal. Mrs. T. C. Robertson was also employed, and a year later, Miss Annie E. Bonham. Securing an available building was another problem, but Dr. Johnson obtained one belonging to the Columbia Theological Seminary which was at that time temporarily vacant. Thus with fifteen hundred dollars, two teachers, twenty-one students and a one-room building, Dr. Johnson began the realization of his dream of a Teacher's Training School, November 15, 1886.

The school was soon moved to a larger building and increased rather rapidly. It received some state aid and much encouragement. Along with this growth of the Training School, another movement was beginning which later affected Winthrop. Mr. Tillman had begun the agitation of his agricultural and industrial ideas, which advocated training along these lines. The final triumph of these ideas was realized in the establishment of Clemson College. At this same time, there was some talk of establishing an industrial College for Women, separate from the Normal School. Under this movement, some industrial phases were added to the Normal School, but the industrial element was not yet an important feature of the school courses.

In the meantime, Winthrop had continued to grow and its enlargement was becoming eminently necessary. People interested in the School believed it advisable for the State to take over the control, rather than allowing it to remain a part of the City Schools of Columbia. Due to the recent establishment of Clemson College, it was a little difficult to bring about this change, but it was finally effected. When this change was made, the ideas of normal and industrial work was combined in the establishment of the South Carolina Industrial and Winthrop Normal College. Later, the name was changed to The Winthrop Normal and Industrial College of South Carolina. Competitive bids were invited for the location, and Rock Hill was chosen. The cornerstone was laid May 12, 1894. However, it was not finally opened there until 1895. Dr. Johnson was unanimously elected President.

Winthrop College has continued to grow and its influence has spread. In March, 1920, the name of the College was changed to Winthrop College, The South Carolina College for Women. Winthrop is a member of the chief standardizing agencies and other associations of our country: Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States, Association of American Colleges, American Council on Education, and on the approved list of the Association of American Universities. The College plant includes a campus of about seventy-five acres, an Administration Building, a Class Room Building, a Training School Building, Tillman Science Hall, six dormitories, Joynes Hall for the faculty, a dining hall, Carnegie Library, Johnson Hall, Gymnasium, Infirmary, and Home Management House. The College owns also a farm of two hundred fifty-nine and three-fourths acres. The estimated value of the College in 1929 was three million, two hundred twenty-two thousand, one hundred forty-eight dollars and sixty-four cents. The student body numbers approximately seventeen hundred fifty students and the faculty over one hundred.

However, the services of the College is the real measure of its success. Winthrop College has lifted the women of South Carolina and has enabled them to serve better their state and the world. The Winthrop Daughters form a large group who have scattered themselves over the world and have entered many and various fields of activity. All remember faithfully their Alma Mater and the Great Personality that it honors, their dear "Debe."

SENIOR

Senior Class History

IT WAS a grey day, drizzling rain, cold and dreary, when the Class of '31 first made its appearance at Winthrop. If we were a prophet rather than an historian, perhaps some important sign could be seen in that dreary day. Yet being merely an humble historian, we record faithfully that it was a rainy day. At any rate, here were the seven hundred Freshmen at Winthrop. The long dreamed-of event had happened, and we had joined the "line of blue."

School soon started in earnest and the Class of Garnet and Gray became organized, thanks to the Seniors. We soon found that the Sophs weren't so terribly important and that even the Freshmen had some influence. At least we attempted to make others think we had, as we sang our class song—"Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-One, the Class of Garnet and Gray!" The Junior sisters helped along our growing feeling of importance by giving us a party. In fact, we were becoming quite a significant part of this Winthrop world.

Along came hockey season, which was a new experience for most of us. With all the enthusiasm of childhood we entered into this sport. On the night of the big Pep Meeting we retired to the gallery with a what-do-we-care and just-wait-'til-we-show-you air. Yet we were envious and among ourselves we secretly wondered if we would ever attain the sublime joy of being able to occupy one of the favored positions that the Upperclassmen held. It was then that our Gorilla, that was later to become so famous, was first introduced to the track cup, proving ourselves Spartans and true daughters of Atalanta.

After we had become thoroughly settled and accustomed to the Winthrop way of living, we gave our sisters a Valentine party, our first entertainment. In spite of our secret fears and consternations beforehand, we proved ourselves quite successful hostesses. And that isn't all we proved able to do that year. We upset all dope to the contrary and walked off with the track cup, proving ourselves Spartans and true daughters of Atalanta.

Before we realized it our Freshman days had become history and we were Sophs. "Libba" Hopke's "freshies" had proven themselves worthy and now 'Cille Cuttino's Sophs proceeded to line up to this reputation. Before we went home in the Spring of '28, we had begun plans on the Sophomore Council, which was an entirely new idea and our very own. In order to lend more dignity and formality to hazing and "rat initiation," the Sophomore Council had been elected to make definite rules for "Sophomore Week." And just didn't we impress the "Rats!" With all the formality of kings that august body, the Sophomore Council, met and severely reprimanded some certain Freshmen for impudence and lack of respect! True to our expectations, this body has become an institution on the campus.

Not content with our achievements so far, we now entered the dramatic field, just to prove our versatility and incidentally to make a little cash. And what stars were discovered! The cast for "Babs," included some people who will most certainly revolutionize the legitimate stage, provided they don't decide their callings lie in other fields, and thereby sacrifice art to duty. Along the mercenary line again, came our Food Sale, and it further proved our versatility and showed our domestic talents. Without exaggeration, this was a very successful food sale, showing the coöperation of which the Class of Garnet and Gray was capable.

One of the high lights of Winthrop's social season was unmistakably the party given in honor of the Seniors. Using the North garden in its natural spring regalia, as the setting, the lovely organdie dresses of the Seniors were offset by the immaculate white trousers of their escorts, the Sophomores.

And to establish still further our athletic prowess, we triumphantly carried off the archery cup, thanks to Lib Simpson. And so another year had rolled past, and, lo! half our Winthrop life was spent. Our emotions were a little conflicting when this sudden thought struck us. Could it be possible that two years could have gone so quickly? We must have dreamed it. Yet we were now Juniors. And all regrets immediately vanished. Jolly Juniors! Happy thought!

Characteristically this year opened with a bang and three cheers. Just as we had successfully played the role of Freshmen and Sophomores, so we determined to play the role of Juniors. We, therefore, started off enthusiastically. As we fully realized the joys of Junior life, we wondered what pleasure we could have found in life before this. Now we could have dates on Saturday night. Just imagine. And we were ordering rings and planning Junior-Senior, and could even have class meetings in the auditorium instead of packing into "Room 22" after chapel! Little sisters now became our special care, and we simply burst with pride before their admiring (?) glances.

The success of "Babs" was repeated in "What Every Woman Knows." But our dramatic accomplishments did not end here. So far we had presented the productions of others under the direction of others. Now we produced the Junior Follies, which was the brain child of our president, Gus Simpson, and which was directed by her. Surely you remember the fame of this that spread abroad and it is absolutely unnecessary to remind you of it. Remember those choruses and dances and songs and the cast! Of course you do.

Athletically, we were more successful than ever before. Not content with just one cup this year, we took the Basketball, Track and Baseball cups, not to mention the Tennis Doubles Championship, due to the excellent playing of Mary Asbill and Minnie Ella Swetenburg. Here we stopped, not wanting to appear selfish.

The climax was Junior-Senior, that simply gorgeous affair. The Juniors in their white dresses, proudly wearing their new rings, accompanied their Seniors, beautifully dressed, to the "Land of the Midnight Sun." Those who weren't there can't imagine the beauty of this land—the flashing Aurora, the snowy tables, sparkling igloos, lifelike seals on the edges of the ice-bound lakes, and adorable little penguins are only suggestions of what the Juniors had done for their Senior sisters.

We stayed over for Commencement this year and realized that we were entering the last lap—our Senior year. With regrets for our Junior jollity and yet anticipation of what we were gaining, we donned the Senior dignity with Lucile Heinz directing. "And now that we are Seniors!" triumphantly we sang.

Senior privileges! On any small excuse we went shopping during vacants in the morning. "O, if you're in a hurry, I'll go down town for you in the morning. It's a Senior privilege you know." The last was said rather archly. The least of the Senior privileges was by no means the journey to Columbia for the Fair, and incidentally to see that grand and glorious Clemson-Carolina game! For one time it was literally true that "a good time was had by all." And we immediately set about making the underclassmen jealous by reciting our experiences.

Again we proved ourselves athletically capable, winning first of all the coveted hockey cup. This was the first time we had won this cup, and it completed our collection which represented our prowess in all Winthrop sports.

Since our previous attempts at dramatic performances had been successful, we made our first stage appearance as Seniors in "The Importance of Being Earnest." We substituted Oscar Wilde's play for the usual Faculty Farce because of its appropriateness for our earnest faculty members and Senior Class. We also sponsored the Carolina Players from the University of South Carolina. Our farewell to the public in a dramatic way, was the Senior play, "The Legend of Leonora."

So much for our accomplishments! Our time was growing short and we were realizing that soon the Class of '31 would be separated. Senior Week has been one maze of gloriousness—excitement of graduation, gifts, friends, family, entertainments! Yet there is keen regret. We're leaving these friends, these dear old walls, Winthrop days are nearly over, and we are almost alumnae. As I sit here I hear the strains of that dear old class song, being sung for the last time by the Class of '31. And now I end this to go and join them as we go through that last service together, the goal for which we have striven, receiving our diplomas and thereby becoming graduates.

—J. CRAWFORD.

Evening

*The day is ended.
The dusky veil of night descends upon
The earth and weaves the crimson threads of sunset
Within its heavy folds. And evening, sighing
For the faded glory of the day,
Sows her tears of sadness on the grass.
The world is heavy with the black of night;
All is quiet, as if in awe or fear;
But from the brooding stillness of the dark
Comes hope . . . another day will soon appear.*

Senior Class Song

*Nineteen hundred and thirty-one
The class of Garnet and Grey
Side by side with thirty-three
We'll fight to win the day.
Sometime in the near future
You will hear them say,
"With plenty of pep, they've won
The 'rep' of the senior class."
Seniors, seniors! The class will back the cry.
We're here to do or die.
Seniors, seniors! we'll win the game
Or know the reason why.*

Noon

*High noon—the culmination of the dawn and morning,
The outgrowth of the sunrise and forenoon,
The climax of youth's fancies.
'Tis then the die is cast
And all the hopes of years are embraced in infinite longing
Before whate'er the gods have deemed is blazoned forth
In this—the child of dawn and morning.*

Junior Class History

1928—Batter up! Bases full! The class of '32 entered the Winthrop series with the determination to put forward a score and more of Babe Ruths and Ty Cobbs, and to build up a reputation of fine sportsmanship and class spirit. With Frances McSwain as pitcher of '29, Drusilla Gee, catcher of '30, and Virginia Smith, first baseman of '31, the Juniors have pushed on to victory.

Athletics have been among the chief events in the history of this class. Hockey, new to the team in the Freshman year, began the calendar of sports. Beaten by the Seniors, Juniors, and Sophomores, the fighting Freshman Hockey Eleven kept their heads up, and, with a grin, battled through the Sophomore year, and, as Juniors, made a wonderful "comeback." In basketball, the class of '32 has always been placed among the best, and, in 1931, with the games of the Freshman and Sophomore years as a background, the Juniors "hit a home run" and won the basketball cup. Tennis and archery have also added scalps to the belt of the Junior class. In 1930, Elizabeth Glover won the tennis singles, and Marie Miller shot her arrow into the archery cup.

Dramatics! Another home run in the history of the Junior class. "Her Husband's Wife," presented last year, and "Friend Hannah," this year, made the other classes sit up and take notice; then "The Junior Follies," ushered in by the spring equinox, showed them what the class of '32 could do by way of producing an original entertainment.

For a full two years, this class has been working for the climax of its history—Junior-Senior! Given in May, on the day that May Queen was crowned, this affair, "where girls could be girls," produced a sensation that will be marked down as one of the dearest moments of college life.

With that, the history of the Junior class in the Winthrop series is ended, and the Babe Ruths and Ty Cobbs sling their bats over their shoulders and wipe their faces.

Junior Class Song

*Now that we are Juniors, don't you forget
We've got the spirit, we'll surprise you yet—
Just wait and watch us do it!
Class of thirty-two never gives in;
Fight to the finish girls, we're out to win!*

Morning

*The morning follows dawn in all its glory,
Pulsating with the joy of life and love,
Vibrating with the happiness of being.
It is that forenoon of content and quiet
When thoughts of youth gain breadth and depth,
When old age cocks one ear and listens
And smiles behind a withered hand
At the faint echo of whims of yesterday.*

Sophomore Class History

If history is the story of change, the Sophomore class is certainly making history. Gee, how glad we are to be changed to Sophomores. No longer are we "rats" or "greenhorns" or any such animal. For after undergoing the trials and tribulations of Freshman days for nine months, we've given the honor up to a bunch of roaring lions of '34.

When returning to the campus last fall things seemed mighty restful until the Sophs began to come in. Then after plenty of "heys" and "hello ole dears," we looked around and saw others where we used to be. They were cute little Freshmen and were even fairly intelligent. Still, we had to treat 'em kinda rough so they wouldn't get lonesome. We weren't so very fierce and our Freshmen certainly could hang curtains to perfection and could they sing! You missed a treat if you didn't hear them.

But Sophs do more than look for fun and folly. We have rather an envious record in everything we've gone out for. First of all in athletics. Hockey sticks were easily swung and on the varsity hockey squad we're proud of three shining W's. In tennis, we almost beat the Juniors and as for basketball, well, we've rung plenty of goals. Then on the baseball varsity we have two more W's. Of course, we swim, bowl, go out for track and even dance the Irish Lilt. Just try to show Sophs something they can't do. You don't have to go outdoors and see athletic matches to see Sophs shine. I should say not. We even do our shining indoors. Just ask our chemistry and history teachers to vouch for it. And all those who saw the Sophs "Come Out of the Kitchen" don't have to ask about us. They know.

And now half of our college career is almost over. We have tried to live up to the ideals which Winthrop presented to us on the first day when we entered her gates. We have tried to be good sports, not only on the athletic field, but also in the class room. We are proud of what we have done, but we are going to be prouder still of what we are going to do. We're not stopping now. Since the two hardest years are over, it's up to us to keep on with our rep and pep and complete the last two years. Let Excelsior be our motto and let's add more honors to garnet and black and make the name of '33 ever shine brightly in the history of Winthrop.

Sophomore Class Song

*Let us stand side by side, Sophomore Class,
Let us fight to the end of the game;
Honor right, colors bright, Freshman Class
And our spirits our only fame.
Oh, we're loyal to Garnet and Black
And our sisters of Garnet and Grey,
With courage new, we'll be true, Sophomore Class,
And we will prove that our trust we'll ne'er betray.*

Dawn

*The day has just begun—
And with it came the dawn,
That first faint streak that gleamed from out the east
And chased away the blackness of the night.
Pale in the beginning,
But, as the dark grew weaker,
It gathered strength and burst
Forth in a fiery cloud,
Proclaiming to the world—
The day has come.*

Freshman Class Song

*As we go marching
And the band begins to p-l-a-y
You can hear us shouting,
"Freshman class is on the way!"
Oski-wow-wow! Ipsi-wee-wo!
Oski-wow-wow! Soak 'em Thirty-four!
And we'll rough-house everybody
Till they holler, "Cut it out! out! out!"*

A Brief History of Winthrop's Social Clubs

Club life began at Winthrop with the organization of the first social club in 1906. The growth from that time was fairly rapid and continuous, until in 1927 there were thirty clubs on the campus. Until this date each club had been "a law unto itself," so to speak, no formal organization existing among the group as a whole. A Pan-Hellenic Council composed of representatives from the seven oldest clubs was recognized, but it possessed little significance beyond its name and no authority.

In 1927, club life underwent a complete reorganization. The clubs were drawn together into what is known as Federation of Social Clubs; the old pan-hellenic council was abolished and in its place a Standards Committee was formed, composed of representatives of the clubs fulfilling the requirements set up by the Federation. The purpose of this reorganization was to raise the basis of club life to a higher level. In the hands of Standards rested the ultimate power of regulation and legislation of clubs on the campus. To be recognized as a standard club certain definite specifications as to age, scholarship, and purpose must be met by the club petitioning.

The instrument of regulation by Standards became unwieldy as the number of clubs increased; to solve this difficulty an Executive Council, composed of twelve members was formed. These twelve members are chosen by the members of the Standards Committee from their own number. The Executive Council is a legislative body of club life. By its action all rules regarding rushing, initiation, and like matters pertaining to club administration are formulated. At present, there are forty-four clubs on the campus, twenty-five of which have been recognized as Standard.

This new system of organization has been a means of creating a more definite coördination between the individual clubs. Through this equalizing medium the unstable situation which existed for years was exterminated. The relations between the clubs are becoming closer and more cordial. The entire organization rests upon a more coöperative basis.

Athletic Song

*Come on, ye Winthrop girls,
Let's fall in line;
We'll find a game and play it,
Every time.
For basketball and hockey
I yell, I yell!
And for our tennis and our swims,
I yell, I yell!
So fight, fight, fight, fight,
Every time,
And to good health we all will
Quickly climb;
We stand for fair play, square play,
Sis! Boom! Bah!
Rah! Rah! Rah!*

Athletics at Winthrop

Hockey sticks! Basketballs! Tennis rackets!—Athletics, one of the greatest and most tonic joys on the Winthrop campus. Fall, full of invigorating cold, brings forth the hockey season, and the familiar “ground sticks, ground sticks” arouses a keen interest in the entire student body. Here, one learns that indolence is impossible, and alertness is demanded.

After the season has come to an end and the champions have been declared, another sport has its day. Basketball, a well-known game, makes its entrance. With it comes a happiness into the athlete's heart which leads to the promotion of a willingness to subordinate individual welfare to that of a group, and to look upon one's own work as part of a large endeavor.

No sooner has the basketball been put away for the next year than are baseball and track foremost in the minds of the athletes. Fleetness of foot and fleetness of mind, along with the stretching and tension of healthy muscles add much to the health of an individual. Winthrop girls are not willing however, to stay inert for the remainder of the year. One sees the tennis courts occupied to their fullest capacity, and archery is a sport which claims the attention of many. Then when the heart becomes somewhat unbearable, a plunge into the swimming pool brings a stimulus to intense effort.

The source and strongest hold of our college spirit is on the field of athletics—whether it be hockey field, basketball floor, track course, tennis court, or swimming pool. The deep draughts of out-of-door air, the excitement of rivalry, the comradeship of coöperative endeavor, the glow of achievement contribute much in immediate and retrospective pleasure; and the invaluable spirit of sportsmanship is obtained, which teaches every team to prefer to lose honorably rather than to win unfairly. This is the spirit of sportsmanship which pervades our Winthrop campus.

Two weeks had passed in the sunny halls of Winthrop when one of the Freshmen in Roddey was heard to say: "Oh, dear, I do wish they would hurry and post my name for a bath."

A SENIOR: "Miss Ketchin, did you see those squirrels run by the window?"

MISS KETCHIN: "Do not become alarmed, young ladies, it is not an unusual occurrence—the poor things are merely looking for a few nuts."

HE: "May I kiss your hand?"

SHE: "Hop to it, big boy, but don't burn your lip on my cigarette."

MIL: "Say, did you see that? When she wet her hair lather appeared!"

DEW: "Yes, but what would you call it, a soap-head?"

MIL: "Sho, an ivory dome."

OF TALKING SHE WAS FOND—

LIB: "I hear there is a schism in number 271 because Maria and Carlotta talk all night and keep Happy awake."

MAG: "Yeah, Maria and Carlotta have taken to talking in their sleep because Happy doesn't give them a chance in the day."

BERT: "Oh, did you hear about Catherine? She has just received an anonymous letter!"

CARRIE: "How exciting, who was it from?"

"I'd walk a mile for a CAMEL"

"Bill's going to sue the company for damages."

"Why? Wot did they do to 'im?"

"They blew the quittin'-whistle when 'e was carryin' a 'eavy piece of iron and 'e dropped it on 'is foot."

SHE: "What steps would you take if you saw a lion on the campus?"

HE: "Long ones."

MARIA: "Once upon a time there was a fat Winthrop girl who did not want to reduce and a thin Winthrop girl who did not want to get fat . . ."

MISHAP: "Yeah? Well, all fairy stories begin with 'once upon a time'."

OVERHEARD

VISITOR ON CAMPUS: "Pardon me, young lady, but could you direct me to Rowdy Hall?"
(Sick 'em Dodo, here's a case for you.)

TILLIE: "Oh, Miss Hall, the calendar just flew out of the window."

MISS HALL: "Yes, I have always heard that time flies."

WINTHROP'S DEBUTANTES

New York may have its debutantes
 They're fine without a doubt,
 But none compare with Winthrop girls
 When they are "coming out!"

"A DREAM"

Last night I had a night mare,
 Of dreams that ne'er could be
 Way back into dark ages
 Of our dear faculty.

The "man" was "Papa" Roberts
 A dashing on his steed
 To save his fairest loved-one
 'Twas "Sara I" indeed!

His dad was on his right side
 A yelling in his ear,
 "Keep Coulson, yes keep Coulson
 To get this lady dear."

Away they sped on horseback
 O'er parks and fields anew,
 To Mendenhall—the castle
 That held his love so true.

Alas! Before they go there,
 Auld father, doomed to die
 Was pierced by a stray arrow
 And soon began to cry.

"They've nipped me in the budd, son,
 I'm going up the spout,"
 "Pugh," yelled out our hero,
 As blood came herling out.

The poor old man was dunn for,
 "Just keith me once," he cried,
 "I'll grant you this request, dad,"
 Then Maggie turned and died.

There was a clap of thunder,
 And then a cry, it seems
 I sighed and then turned over
 To dream more pleasant dreams!

But shuss! brave Pop must travel
 By holmes and o'er a seay
 To claim this fairest lockhead,
 With whom he longs to be.

He had some rice and tidbits
 To eat upon the way,
 For it was a long journey
 One-hundred miles a day.

But love spurred up his horses
 They went as on a wing
 He thought of his sweet maiden
 And then began to sing.

At last he reached the castle
 He searched around to look.
 And found his darling Sally
 Ketchin fishes in a brook.

They ran to meet each other
 All tingley and so white,
 For it has beniaminy a day
 Since such a grand delight.

The scene was so enchanting
 He was so strong and tall
 She wore a lovely bussel
 And sat beside a waterfall.

The dream was ending happily
 But up came a black knight
 And gored the charming lovers
 Away quite out of sight.

MARY HAMMOND, '31.

Acknowledgments

Now that the work and the worry, the troubles and the triumphs of THE 1931 TATLER are over, we look back upon the process of making this year-book and realize that it would have been impossible without the valuable aid of certain individuals. We wish here to give thanks to those to whom it is due:

To Messrs. L. C. Boyer, L. W. Hutchins and W. J. Crichton, Jr., of the Observer Printing House, Charlotte, N. C.

To Mr. Fred E. Gerberding of Bush-Krebs Engraving Company, Louisville, Ky.

To Mr. H. Lee Waters of Lexington, N. C.

To Mr. J. Thompson Brown, Faculty Advisor.

To THE 1931 TATLER staff.

To Thackston's Studio, Rock Hill, S. C.

To the Ladies' Shop, Rock Hill, S. C.

To the "Successful Women" for their photographs and autographs which were given us to use in the interpretation of our theme.

To Georgia Derrick who wrote the poems and the word pictures for us.

To Elizabeth Hopke and Lucille Cuttino, who had the misfortune of being our roommates, who listened to our mad mutterings sympathetically, and who helped us cheerfully.

To any one who has contributed in any way to the success of this book.

AUGUSTA SIMPSON,
Editor-in-Chief,

JULIA McIVER,
Business Manager.

Margaret, I certainly have enjoyed knowing you. We have had grand times in winning haven't we.
